HOME STUDY COURSES FOR ADDICTION PROFESSIONALS

Home Study Courses provide an opportunity for mental health professionals, clinicians, educators, counselors, and students in education, counseling, criminal justice, mental health and addictions to expand their knowledge in a wide variety of addiction related topics while earning continuing education units or hours.

The Home Study Courses offered by Intellica Sales and Consulting are specifically developed for the professional or student who does not need academic credit but is in need of continuing education hours, who desires independent study or is unable to attend traditional workshop offerings given the rural nature of Montana. Offerings may consist of video review, current books and/or Center for Substance Abuse Treatment - Treatment Improvement Protocols (TIPs) or internet exploration activities that are chosen for their capacity to increase knowledge and therapeutic skills. Specific offerings are developed to meet requirements in the special knowledge areas required for certification and/or licensure in Montana. Integration of information and skill development is promoted through thought provoking objective and discussion questions. Each offering includes reading materials, tests, MWATTC evaluation handouts and, as required, audiovisuals materials. Tests or course evaluation materials are assessed promptly on return and completion certificates will be sent to those participants who score 70% or better. Participants scoring less than 70% will be advised and offered an opportunity to retest for a fee of $20.00.

Each Participant must complete a course tracking form(s) from the Mountain West Addiction Technology Transfer Center to receive the appropriate, continuing education hours from Intellica. Continuing education hours (CEUs) may be acceptable by various credentialing boards in Montana for certification or re-certification. It is the responsibility of each participant to assure that their participation in continuing education through home study offerings will meet the standards established by their accreditation board.

Return of course materials: designated course materials including video tapes and/or textbooks must be returned in good reusable shape prior to award of the continuing education certificate. Costs for damaged or unusable materials will be assessed to the enroll
